

the people

Fusion Australia is a Christian organisation who have been working with young people and their communities for over 50 years. In 2000 we started working with schools - under the Schools in Harmony banner - to bring change to the way young people see themselves and each other. The result has been thousands of teenagers getting involved, and over 70 bus trips to Uluru since 2001.

"I am glad I got to go on this trip as a Pilgrim and not a tourist. We didn't just pass through the land, the land passed through us. We know the past, now we can change the future!"

pilgrimage to uluru

the journey

The Pilgrimage to Uluru is a journey to the very heart of Australia. We take a bus load of adventurous high school students and youth workers from the edges of Australia, and head inwards. It's a chance to see our country in a whole new way, and an opportunity to do something that many Australians will never experience. We take the chance to visit Indigenous cultural centres along the way, to give a broad picture of how our history has effected modern Australia. The Pilgrimage to Uluru looks at the issue of reconciliation from a uniquely Christian perspective

"We learn about Indigenous communities around Australia. The Pilgrimage can help change you, and help open your eyes to the things around you. I wouldn't look at the world the same after this."

- Kayla, Victoria 2016

the destination

Situated near the dead-centre of the continent, and on average 2,500 kms from any capital city, is Uluru. A place full of culture and history that shows off both the best and worst of Australia. While the journey is the fun part, the destination is where eyes have been opened, and young people have discovered a determination to have an impact on the future.
